CHAPTER 1

My name is Brian Albeiro Muschietti Rendón, I am a young Chilean-Argentine man who probably nobody knows about me. However, I became into a wealthy theologian thanks to a movement among Protestant Christians as well as for the Lord to give them the power of invoking, conjuring up spirits (between those included are the Roman Catholic saints), as I became obsessed with religion from a very young age, because I was raised in a Protestant denomination that was very strict just like the radical Mennonites.

Even though I was raised in a Christian home, I left the faith by the age of 17, when I started to study psychology at a liberal Calvinist university in Santiago (Chile). However, and under the pressure of my paternal cousin, I came back to the Christian faith. Unfortunately, my cousin was killed by radical left militants (even though I supported the left during my college years) in Washington, D.C (U.S.A.). His essence and pressure brought my family a big legacy. The Muschietti and Rendón Families gained an essence that was something radical to the change of my family, just when my paternal cousin went to Hungary to make a revival there. Sadly, and when his fortune was rising, his death was so hard for the legacy of his family.

It was in that instant that I decided to put a grill on his legacy. We as a family suffered on a strict hell brought to them by his death

—I will certainly tell you that when I die, the Big Tech, the Big Media/Fake News Media, as well as the Left-wing politicians and the evangelical left will praise my death. I'll die at 57 years, and the mainstream media will praise my death. I'll get shooted by radical leftist spies that will ever after soon be aware of the shoots I've been doing so. Mi nombre es Eugene Muschietti Suárez...—my cousin always said about his death, as well as that he would get killed by left-wing extremists. After that year of his murdering, I decided to convert to Christianity (believe it or not, my mother converted to Pentecostal Christianity when I was 14 years old, and I left that faith at 17 years old (becoming an agnostic). My cousin and I discussed, and fought several times since then, but when he was murdered by the Left (as predicted by him), I decided to make a turn back. Now, I am writing these words on behalf of my deceased cousin.

I began to attend the Independent Baptist Church my cousin attended in Argentina (He lived in Santiago, Chile for more than 14 years) as well as leaving my workplace as a psychologist in the hands of a college friend. I began to be a churchman again, attending Independent Baptist churches in Argentina, as well as being a youth minister within the same church. I also decided to earn a Master's degree in Theological Studies at the New Holland Theological Seminary in the United States (NHS is also the alma mater of my cousin, where he got a 4-year-long Master of Divinity). Indeed, my career was not at all blasted by my cousin's ambition for all of my family to be saved under the Law of Jesus Christ. He was going to be an ordained Roman Catholic priest through the Pastoral Provision, a provision inside the Roman Catholic Church which helps Episcopalian priests become Catholic priests, but just when he was murdered, his ordination ceremony was cancelled.

THE LEGACY OF MY COUSIN INSIDE THE CHRISTIAN RIGHT

My cousin's death generated an impact among conservative Protestant denominations around the world (most of all in Western Europe and Latin America). He worked for the Institute on Religion and Republic (IRR) in D.C (USA), making mainline Protestantism great again! He was inspired by the so-called Confessing Movement inside the Presbyterian, Anglican, Lutheran and some Anabaptist churches (such as the Mennonites). Furthermore, his inspiration among this movement notes when he tried to reform the university we both studied (he studied theology and I studied psychology in the same university, which is affiliated to the Presbyterian Church in the United States (an ecumenical, liberal branch of Calvinism). But, I said he was wrong, that my “humble” opinion was that the university we both studied at was right as it was before. However, and thanks to an agreement with the Covenant College as well as with the ultraconservative New Holland University (both located in the United States), the university's theology program had become into the Latin American Theological Seminary, and in fact the Protestant Universities Association of QONAKUY drafted an impeccable statement of faith and became “The Headquarters of the Latin American Christian Right” located into the most prosperous Latin American country.

The National Churches in Europe had their own confessing organizations inside their church body (most of all, in the Scandinavian countries). It also created the non-profit The European Center for Church Renewal among the national churches. Even in the United States, Eugene Johnston won the presidency again, and it created the “Johnston Doctrine”, defeating the radically liberal Jonathan O'Hara, who defeated Johnston in the U.S. presidential elections of 2020.

But the most impactful case that turned my cousin's wife's country into an impactful economy was the SCOTUS case titled Muschietti v. Republic of Colombia. My cousin filed the case on behalf of the Christian Right (according to him), converting his wife's country into an international potency, creating bilingual jobs, banning most abortions, investing in education and community, between other things that his wife's country developed thanks to his suing to his wife's country. In other words, Colombia became an international power thanks to the lawsuit filed by my cousin.

There is so much to say that my cousin was also a composer of both secular and religious music. He composed secular remixes and hits like “Dazodizas”, “Resale”, “Uptown Booty”, “Unbreakable”, “Maria Canela (versión rap)”, and he created a Christian music movement called “Confessing Gospel music”. He was indeed hired by several record labels to specifically work with prominent Christian and secular singers of the region. Furthermore, he also made a theater work called “Kesil” during his last year of college.

THE OFFER

Just after my cousin's death, I decided to do something radical: to summon the saints of the Catholic Church and the 72 angels of the Kabbalah. That was in fact my cousin's objective; to improve his work and academic performance in both work and school as well as making Protestantism a ""mystical branch of Christianity". It was then I made an offer for occultists called "Angelic, Saint and Spirit Evocation for Occultists".

It was then that I began to draft a project for occultists inside the internet on behalf of my cousin. The goal? Simple: To make instant contact with the Mother of the Highest God, the Saints of the Catholic Church, the Angels, and Demons of those unique grimoires. I also suggested to the occultist-in-expertise to make the use of custom talismans, rosaries, and chaplets that I could indeed use for my dairy devotional with the Lord. It was, in fact, my responsibility to pay any shipping cost of such objects, I said.

After a long time of reviewing the draft project, I decided then to post it on a freelance website inside the internet, and it lasted a roof time. It was hard for me to find the perfect occultist to make the offer, and mostly because the offer had always been rejected by the freelance site. After a specific budget obtained from my savings, finally, the freelance site approved my project.

There were indeed several occultists that wanted my offer, but as my budget was almost $1200, they asked for more money. It was rush hour for me to find the expert occultist.

So, three months later, while I was delivering a sermon to my cousin's church congregation, my phone rang, and the message said: <<You have a new message from the Ganush-Lewis Occult Expertises>>.

I started to chat with those strange people.

—Hello—Said the chatbox— How are you?—

—I'm doing well—I replied to the strange message—

—We saw your project on the freelance site you published it— They replied—How much is your budget?—

—$1200 USD—I replied to them. Then, they asked me to go to their home in Los Angeles, California (U.S.A.)—

—What the heck do you want?!—I replied angrily to them because I would risk myself by spending all the money on a U.S. Trip. At least, they left their physical address on the chat and instantly blocked me from WhatsApp as well as from the phone. It was rude on my own to respond rudely to that chat. So, I began to navigate on the internet about them. It appeared on a website called "The Ganush-Lewis Occult Expertise", and they offered what I wanted: Angelic and Spirit Evocation. However, the price of this service was at $700 USD, so it was strange to me that this couple were at least a gentile couple that offered me the work at $100 USD. They even had a California-based town for recreation. So, the offer was right for me. I decided, then, to rob money from the church's secretariat to specifically going to California (U.S.A.).

After going to that town in California, I knocked the door and, behold, a lady opens the door and say

—Who are you?—

—My name is Brian Albeiro Muschietti Rendón— I replied to the lady, and it was instantly that the lady called up her husband—

—My dear—Said the lady to her husband—Is the boy—

The couple wandered and were happy to work with me within a very interesting work

—My name is Illenka Ganush-Lewis— Said the lady— But you can call me Ms. Lewis, I was very interested in your offer on that freelance site, and we wanted to offer a pure work for you, my deceased grandmother cursed a loan officer for humiliating her in front of all the people you know. Her boyfriend sued to us but we manipulated successfully the judges of that court for him to lose the case, and fortunately, he decided to leave his workplace to be in a psychiatric hospital—

—Hey!—I was wandered about the success they have had through—That's a wonderful story—

Instantly, she presented her husband to me, who is indeed a Wicca Shaman of Hungarian origin, as well as the couple's beautiful employees.

—Well— Said Viktor Lewis,—You are on the right path for your relationship with the Highest God and His Celestial Hierarchy. Viktor Lewis, but you can call me Lord Lewis—

—Brian Albeiro Muschietti Rendon—, I said by handling hands— Nice to meet you —Nice to meet you too!—Said Lr. Lewis—I was waiting for a favorite client like you—

—The Angels, the Demons, and the specified Saints you want to instantly connect with will work for you, and we, as occultists, will help you to reach your goals— Said Illenka— Our $100 USD?

—Here you have them—I delivered to Illenka a $100 USD bill—

—In the offer, you said that you would cover the cost of your custom talismans, is that correct?—

—Yeap— I replied— In fact, they are talismans, rosaries, and chaplets that would supposedly be charged by the spiritual entities—

—The entities we work with do not charge such objects— Said Illenka—If you want to summon the saints, they will partner with specific angels to obtain your goals—

—Hallelujah— I said—That's what I've been looking for—

So, their home is full of Roman Catholic saints and angels statues and images, and I wandered when they worked with the Divine Child, and the Sacred Heart of Jesus Christ (my cousin's father patron saint), I must assert that their house was feeded by the entities as they asked for food.

—It is time to begin the work— Said Lr. Lewis—

Instantly, in a strange language, they called upon the three classes of entities I asked for to summon. And behold, I feel a vision about those saints, angels, and demons that they would specifically help me to improve my work performance, my biblical understanding and knowledge, and indeed help me to make worship songs for my Baptist Church worship services. The vision was unique, as I would have instant contact with them throughout my free custom talismans, rosaries, and chaplets every single night!
